

Jaquie Brown.

Height 165 cm

MC/Entertainer Biography

JOHNSON&LAIRD

With her unique take on most things in life, media funny-girl Jaquie Brown has been making us laugh for over 20 years.

Jaquie has many strings to her bow and is one of the few J & L talents that fits into all the categories we offer.

Her sparkling wit and natural charm have won her a legion of fans on TV and radio, and make her an in-demand host and MC at corporate events.

As a voice artist, Jaquie is often in demand to front commercial campaigns. As an actor you'll know Jaquie as the star of her own show, TV3's award-winning 'The Jaquie Brown Diaries' where she plays a fame hungry version of herself. This series has aired in the U.S Australia and Finland.

Jaquie is a mother of two and a published author - her funny but heartfelt pregnancy guide 'I'm not fat, I'm pregnant!' was released through Random House to critical acclaim.

Jaquie is a script writer with her first short film 'Nothing Special' being accepted into film festivals around the world, most notably Cannes.

She is currently developing two screen plays with her co-writer.

Jaquie is a writer for the Sunday Star Times and is currently studying the Meisner acting technique.

Testimonials.

"Jaquie is that rare person who can bring a light and human touch to some of the hardest topics - the unspoken challenges of parenting, the double standard of body image, the loss of a loved one. Jaquie's column for the Sunday Star-Times and Stuff. co. nz developed a loyal following through her willingness to laugh at herself as she tackled the tough issues. "
